Hazen Retires After 33 Years as Head Librarian

Head librarian Diane Hazen shows off the snake plant that has thrived along with her at the Romulus Public Library ever since the building's dedication on June 28, 1971.

By Kristi Stephens

If you've lived in Romulus for any length of time, you've almost certainly met her.

To some, her face is more familiar than any elected official's.

If books are your friends, she probably is, as well.

So when she retires on February 28, after 33 years as the Romulus Public Library's head librarian, Diane Hazen will be sorely missed.

"I've really enjoyed it; it's been a lot of fun," said Hazen, who has never wavered in her belief that being a librarian – and thereby surrounding herself with good books and good people – was the ideal career choice for her.

Given the fact that her mother was an assistant to the first Wayne County librarian, it's perhaps no surprise that Hazen was drawn to her chosen field from the very beginning. As a girl, she often went to work with her mom and enjoyed "helping out" with various tasks.

After earning a Master of Library Science degree from the University of Michigan, Hazen spent five years as a children's librarian, first in Farmington and later in Trenton. She was appointed to her current position in 1970.

"Romulus became a city in May, and I assumed my duties in June," Hazen recalled. "Everyone was excited about the city's new library [then under construction] and its future in general. It was a heady time."

Hazen, who had grown up in Detroit, moved to Romulus soon after receiving her new appointment because she felt it was important to be an integral part of the community she served. She has remained here – very happily – to this day.

Hazen's impact on the people of Romulus has been truly tremendous. During her tenure, the library's collection has grown from 13,000 to over 60,000 books. Over the years, she implemented numerous programs, such as book discussion groups, for the city's adults, but her main focus has always been the children of the community.

"Perhaps because I began my career as a children's librarian, I have devoted a big portion of my time to services for young people," said Hazen. "Helping children acquire a love of books and reading can have an enormous impact on their lives."

Besides organizing summer reading clubs, story-time sessions, craft classes, and other library-based programs for kids, Hazen also worked closely with the Romulus Community Schools.

"I've always had a wonderful relationship with the district," she said. "During the late '70s and early '80s, when the schools were forced to cut programs because of financial difficulties, my staff and I were able to help them maintain some library services by training volunteer workers in everything from children's literature to bookbinding. We also have a long history of sharing books with the schools, as well as working with teachers to acquaint them with the library's resources and ways to take advantage of them. Still another of our successful library-school collaborations has been our yearly exhibition of student art."

Hazen said she reached out to the schools because she realized that, for many children, school libraries offered their only chance to enjoy reading.

"The City of Romulus is spread out over a big area, and most of our children live too far away to walk to the library," she explained. "There's no public transportation, and kids from one-car, working households often have a hard time catching a ride from Mom or Dad. The library in their neighborhood school provides these youngsters with their only opportunity to borrow books."

Hazen's involvement with the schools has been so extensive and influential that the district recently recognized her with a special resolution of commendation.

Letter to the Editor

Resident Speaks Out Against Proposed Racetrack

To the Editor:

Here we go again! Promoters of a horse racetrack for Romulus have presented their plans to the Romulus City Council and it appears that the Council is supportive of this proposal. And here comes another "quick-fix" idea almost ready to be birthed by a simple lack of wisdom on the City Council's part.

Some years ago, Romulus was being considered a potential hub for gambling casinos. This proposal was turned down by Romulus. Excuse me, but may I say: Gambling by any other name is still gambling, and will offer nothing positive for the City of Romulus. And gambling brings with it a number of unseemly ramifications, namely greed, theft, family ruination, suicide, irresponsibility, prostitution, violence, and corruption, to name a few.

Why is the City Council even considering such a proposal? Over and over, get-rich-quick schemers come waltzing into our council chambers with nothing but money-making schemes on their mind. Do not think for one moment that this proposal for a racetrack in Romulus will benefit or enhance the status of the City of Romulus. It will not. Gambling on horses is "a highly intelligent activity"? Oh, please! Next!

How ironic this entire proposal is, and Canada must surely be laughing at the gullibility and vulnerability of Romulus. Over ten years ago, a hazardous-waste well was proposed for this city, and for years we fought this well. That hazardous-well proposal should have been nipped in the bud, just as this proposal should be. Canada wants to use Romulus as a toilet in which to flush its hazardous waste. And now we have Magna Entertainment Corp. of Aurora, Ontario (that's in Canada, folks), wanting to provide our fair city with yet another type of hazardous waste – waste in the form of gambling.

Enough of gambling with the lives of the citizens of Romulus. Enough of endangering the welfare of the people in this community. Enough of trying to implement quick-fix economic schemes that would cost more in the long run than people would be willing to pay "if" they realized the true consequences of hosting a gambling facility here. Gambling is just as hazardous to one's health as a toxic-waste well.

Now, it is high time for the City Council to awaken to doing what is honestly beneficial for the community of Romulus. It is high time for those in authority to get a true vision of what is necessary to make this a thriving, prosperous community, and it is not gambling. It is high time for the City Council to start exercising sound wisdom regarding what is and is not acceptable for the overall welfare of Romulus citizens.

We have Detroit Metropolitan Airport based here. We need to utilize this airport, and realize that people from all over this country and the world come through this airport. This city could be providing all sorts of things for these people as well as for residents. Romulus is "prime" territory for shopping malls, exquisite restaurants offering numerous ethnic menus, beautiful botanical gardens, a worldwide conference center, a science center, etc. Surely there are philanthropists, foundations, and other investors other than those involved in the gambling industry who are willing to invest in worthwhile projects for this city. The city must start considering the needs of our young people here. They could use a youth center. Others need a recreational center. All Romulus residents have needs. Why isn't some of the land in Romulus utilized as a community project for young and old alike to raise a community garden in the summer, selling the produce for profit?

The City of Romulus has such potential for growth. One does not need gambling to build up Romulus. Gambling would merely tear the city down and bring about decadence. Romulus needs this racetrack like it needs another hole in the ground – i.e., hazardous waste well. Mayor Alan Lambert, and Romulus City Council persons, please exercise sound wisdom and nip this offer of a racetrack for Romulus in the bud. Might I suggest that your focus is off? Get a vision for enhancing and advancing this city. Look and see what other cities have done and learn thereby. Take heed. Look this "gift horse" in the mouth. There's more at stake here than meets the eye. Take some advice and don't solicit this vice in Romulus.

Romulus residents most definitely do not need to leave their lives open to chance or gambling; they need a "sure" thing. Mayor Lambert, and Romulus City Council, I implore you to please say "NO!" to this racetrack proposal.

It is written:

(Proverbs 8:1) Doth not wisdom cry? and understanding put forth her voice?

(8:2) She standeth in the top of high places, by the way in the places of the paths.

(8:3) She crieth at the gates, at the entry of the city, at the coming in at the doors.

Is anyone listening to the voice of sound wisdom? You need to. She hasn't been wrong yet. Keep the gates and doors in Romulus closed to gambling.

New Health Center in Romulus Puts Focus on Female Fitness

Romulus Mayor Alan R. Lambert (center) joined Helen and Aubrey McNally – owners of the new Curves for Women center in Romulus – for a ribbon-cutting ceremony at their grand opening last month.

Aubrey and Helen McNally, owners of the Curves for Women fitness center in Belleville, are proud to announce the opening of a second center in Romulus.

"We're excited to become part of this community," said Aubrey, "and we look forward to helping Romulus women reach amazing results, both physical and emotional, through our Curves Workout program. Our supportive environment offers a 30-minute fitness solution with a common-sense weight-loss program that helps break the weight-loss cycle."

"The success of the Curves Workout program has made Curves International, Inc., the world's largest fitness company," he added.

Helen is also enthusiastic about the new center.

"Curves is a comfortable, welcoming place where real women work out," she said. "Our facility is designed so women can encourage and support one another while moving around the circuit."

With the average person gaining three pounds a year, according to Aubrey, a reasonable workout regime that can fit into today's busy lifestyle of work and family is critical to help combat diabetes, osteoporosis, hypertension and other health risks that women can face.

"The Curves Workout program, designed by Gary Heavin and his wife and co-founder Diane, is utilized in all Curves locations," he explained. "The system allows women of all ages and fitness levels to perform all five of the components of a complete fitness program, combining strength and cardiovascular training through hydraulic resistance. The experienced instructors at Curves offer one-on-one training, while members talk and inspire one another during the workout. Also, the comfortable, welcoming atmosphere has helped women of all fitness levels commit to an ongoing fitness program and achieve results."

Since the first Curves franchise opened in 1995, the organization has seen exponential growth, beginning with 44 locations in 1996 and expanding to more than 1,250 centers in 2000. By 2001, Curves boasted more than 2,221 locations, earning it recognition as the world's largest fitness-center franchise from the 2001 Guinness Book of World Records. It also was named number-one in Entrepreneur Magazine's 2003 list of the top 500 franchises. Currently, Curves has more than two million members in more than 5,000 locations within the United States, Canada, Spain, Mexico and the U.K. With a center opening every four hours on average, Curves now has one location for every four McDonalds restaurants in America.

"Helping say goodbye to unhealthy lifestyles, unattainable diet resolutions, and unreasonable fitness regimes gives women a new outlook on exercise and feeding their body properly," said Helen. "We look forward to providing women in this community with a complete 30-minute workout that will ensure they can stick to the program and sustain a healthy weight."

Curves for Women is located at 36015 Goddard Road, Suite 200. For more information, call 734-941-0900 or visit the Curves International Website: www.curvesforwomen.com. □

School Board Member Believes in Community Involvement

Niema White – appointed to the Romulus Community Schools Board of Education last month to fill the vacancy created by former Board president Billy McCraight's retirement – has begun her term of service with an active schedule of community involvement.

Recently, for example, trustee White attended a pizza party for parents and children at Wick Elementary School. The event gave her an opportunity to introduce herself to the members of Wick's parents group and discuss their educational concerns.

Another chance to meet with some of the district's parents and their award-winning children came during Romulus

Middle School's "Student of the Month" ceremony, where White praised the students for their "excellent work and dedication to education," and further praised the parents for their "attendance and support of their children."

And at a program celebrating the accomplishments of local Daisy, Brownie, and Girl Scout troops, White and co-leader Rose Williams proudly presented their Brownie Troop #1835 members to the audience, and recognized several of the girls, who had completed various tasks, during a special "moving-up" ceremony in their honor. The program also featured a number of song and dance performances by the girls.

White says she is eagerly looking forward to her continued involvement with the district and the community.

"I'm really impressed with the enthusiasm of both the parents and students in Romulus," she stated. "It will be exciting to work with families that are so dedicated to the educational achievements and accomplishments of their children." □

Hazen Retires from Library After 33 Years

One of Hazen's biggest successes was the bookmobile program that ran for nine years before funding cuts put an end to it.

"Our vehicle, 'The Romulus Read-about' – which was named by a Beverly School student who received a $25 bond for his winning suggestion in our 'name the bookmobile' contest – became a familiar sight all over the city," said Hazen. "At one point, we were distributing more than 3,000 books a month through the program."

Hazen's fondest memories, though, are of the thousands of people she has had the privilege to meet.

"I especially love visits from people who used to come into the library as children," she noted. "The fact that I'm now helping their children develop a similar love of books has been a big thrill for me."

But of all Hazen's friends, there's one in particular who has been there for her, literally day-in and day-out, for more than 30 years. So who is this faithful companion?

"It's my snake plant," laughed Hazen, pointing to a sizeable clump of obviously flourishing greenery. "Some of my librarian friends gave me a gift – a pot containing several plants – back in 1971, when the library was dedicated. All of the plants died except this one, which remained in its original pot until a month ago, when it got knocked off a cabinet and broke. You should have seen how root-bound it was!"

Although Hazen will leave her old friend at the Library, she is taking a few cuttings to nurture at home. Caring for her plant – and her garden in general – is one of several interests she'll be pursuing in her retirement, along with travel, quilting, and working on her house. She also plans to dedicate more time to local organizations such as the Romulus Historical Society and the Romulus Pumpkin Festival Committee.

As to the identity of Hazen's replacement, that is not yet known. Applications for the Wayne County-appointed position are currently being accepted.

Friends who would like to wish Hazen well are invited to attend an open house that will be held at the library (11121 South Wayne Road, next to City Hall) on Friday, March 7, from 4 to 7 p.m. For more information, call 734-942-7589 during the library's normal business hours: Monday through Thursday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.; Saturday from noon to 5 p.m. □

Teacher Called To Active Duty

Chris Smith, CSRD (Comprehensive School Reform Development) grant Compass Learning facilitator for the Romulus Community Schools, has been called up for active duty with the U.S. Marine Corps. Lance Corporal Smith, whose work-duty description is "combat engineer," will report to a training facility in New River, North Carolina.

Smith indicated that he and his fellow combat engineers will be assigned to find and trip mines around airfields. He also noted that he will receive his orders for the next six months when he arrives in New River, and that other soldiers are predicting a total service period of one year – possibly two.

Waiting at home for Smith's return will be his wife Nicole, who is an attorney, and their 15-week-old baby, Lewis William.

Romulus teachers recently gave a going-away party for Smith at Barth Elementary School. Those who attended said that they will miss the enthusiastic attitude, dedication, and expertise of Smith, a technology specialist who has helped teachers maximize their skills on the Compass Integrated Learning System used in all district elementaries.

Everyone wishes Lance Corporal Smith the best as he meets his new challenges, and hopes that his tour of duty will be safe and successful. □

Notice to Romulus Citizens About Audience Participation at Meetings of the Romulus Board of Education

At the February 10 meeting of the Romulus Board of Education, the Board approved the recommendations presented by the Policy Committee to govern audience participation at future Board of Education meetings. Residents will be asked to fill out their name, address, phone number, the date, and the subject they wish to discuss with the Board. Citizens need to know that they will have to hand in their request BEFORE the start of the 6:30 p.m. Board of Education meetings.

The next Romulus Board of Education meeting will be held on Monday, March 10, in the district's administrative office, located at 36540 Grant Road.

GUIDELINES FOR AUDIENCE PARTICIPATION

The Romulus Board of Education welcomes audience participation at its meetings. These guidelines, which are based on the Board of Education By-Laws and Policies, are intended to facilitate the orderly conduct of the audience-participation portion of Board of Education meetings.

The district encourages parents, students, and others to resolve issues at the building level whenever possible, with the teacher or building principal or assistant principal. Issues not resolved at the building level may be addressed to the appropriate central office administrator and then, if necessary, to the superintendent. The Board of Education discourages parents, students, and others from addressing the Board of Education on issues that have not been processed in this fashion and will, in such cases, direct the person addressing the Board of Education to the appropriate administrator.

- Persons wishing to address the Board of Education must complete an audience-participation card and submit it to the Board's president before the meeting starts. Cards will not be accepted after the meeting starts.
- The Board's president will recognize speakers.
- Speakers must limit their comments to three minutes or less unless, due to the number of persons desiring to address the Board, the Board's president limits comments to two minutes or less. Speakers may not defer any part of their time to others.
- Speakers must identify themselves by name and address. Speakers representing organizations or groups should indicate whether their comments represent the official position of those organizations or groups.
- Speakers should observe the rules of common courtesy. Personal attacks on Board members and district employees will not be tolerated. Board members and district employees may request the Board to entertain complaints against them in closed session.
- The audience-participation portion of Board of Education meetings does not exceed 30 minutes.
- Board of Education members may question speakers to gain additional information. However, the Board of Education does not debate audience-participation items.
- The Board of Education reserves the right to take any action permitted by law to ensure order at its meetings, including the expulsion of disorderly persons.

Tuskegee Airmen Discussed

James Hayes treated Cory Elementary students to a brief talk about the famous Tuskegee Airmen as part of the school's celebration of Black History Month.

The celebration of Black History Month at Cory Elementary School included a very informative lecture about the famous Tuskegee Airmen by James C. Hayes, current president of the Detroit chapter of Tuskegee Airmen, Inc. Hayes is also a member of the Board of Governors of the Tuskegee Airmen National Historic Museum and a member of the Black Pilots of America, Inc.

Second Lieutenant Hayes told Cory students stories about the various feats accomplished by the all-Black pilots of the 332nd Fighter Group in their flights over Europe. The group never lost an escorted bomber to enemy fire in over 200 missions; shot down 17 enemy planes over Italy during a three-week period; and sank a German destroyer using only a .50-caliber machine gun.

Hayes also explained that, before President Harry Truman signed Executive Order #9981 in 1948, which integrated the U.S. Armed Forces, military facilities were often segregated, and African-American pilots were given assignments escorting bombers rather than flying fight missions themselves.

He concluded by noting that 66 of the 450 Black combat pilots were killed in action, and another 32 were either shot down and captured or made emergency landings in enemy territory.

Dick Kruse, spokesperson for the Romulus Community Schools, reports that Hayes' educational background includes classes at the Chrysler Institute of Engineering, the University of Detroit, and the University of Michigan. He holds a commercial pilot's license, instrument rating, and flight-instructor rating for single- and multi-engine airplanes. Hayes was also in business as a partner in the Aero Services air freight/charter company and as the owner of Triangle Aviation flight training school. □

Barth Elementary Makes Kindergarten Teacher Richard "Queen for a Day"

The students, parents, and staff members of Barth Elementary School recently celebrated the birthday of Karen Richard by surprising the enormously popular kindergarten teacher with "Queen for a Day" honors.

"When you go to watch Richard teach her class, you are convinced that she is teaching her first lesson," said Dick Kruse, spokesperson for the Romulus Community Schools. "Her enthusiasm, sincerity, and educational interest in her students is immediately evident, and so is the eager response from her students. Parents are equally impressed, and frequently attend kindergarten functions with large groups of friends and relatives," he added.

Making Richard's energy and enthusiasm especially remarkable is the fact that she is in her thirty-eighth year of teaching, and is currently number one on the district's teacher seniority list.

To make Richard's day, members of the Barth School community led her to a special chair, helped her into a regal, fur-trimmed cloak, and settled a beautiful jeweled crown upon her head. When she was comfortably seated, the students, parents, and staff in attendance presented Richard with special gifts and commended her on her outstanding career.

The Romulus News joins everyone at Barth in wishing Karen Richard a very happy birthday, and thanking her for her years of service. □
